

THE REVEREND DAVID NORSE

David Norse grew up with Tualatin Presbyterian Church. His family moved to Sherwood when he was eight and soon started attending TPC. He was involved with the youth choirs, plays, and the youth group. In eighth grade TPC's Deacons stayed with David and his dad, Rick, when his mother, Rachel, suffered a heart attack, an experience that powerfully showed him the love of the church. David went to Magruder church camp in eighth grade, an experience that got him interested in ministry, and that next year he started confirmation classes, which he loved. David first took to our pulpit to read his statement of faith when he became a member, and a few years later he preached for High School Senior Sunday. As a student of Lewis & Clark College he continued to worship and be a part of the church, serving as a deacon, preaching occasionally, and helping lead a high school worship retreat. In college he studied in Scotland and, at the suggestion of Pastor Ken, got involved with the Iona Community. After graduation he returned to Scotland to work at the communities outdoor center, Camas, where he led kayaking. David attended Princeton Theological Seminary, graduated in May, 2013, and was ordained on January 5, 2014 in Philadelphia. Pastor Ken participated in David's ordination.

KEN'S CHARGE TO DAVID NORSE AT HIS ORDINATION ON SUNDAY, JANUARY 5, 2014

This day, this ordination, your ministry

It's not. About. You.

It's not about you, but the God who lives, breathes, and works in, around, and through you.

You are going to need to remember this

On the morning that you wake up, and can barely crawl out of bed
Because your faith, your faith in what you can do, in your gifts, is dead

Your faith will be dead

Dead because you will know that no matter how much hospitality
you show, how many meals you serve

The hungry will still flow through your doors

Children of God needing more than you could ever have to give

Dead because every time you preach

Some surprised soul will say, "Hey, you're getting better, this time was OK." And you'll say, "Thanks?"

Scratching your head as you walk away.

Dead because no matter how many times she tells you

this time she's quit for real

Part of you hopes but another part steels yourself for the next time she uses, comes down, and quits, this time for real...again.

Dead because you will wonder on that morning what's the point of it all

If maybe you shouldn't have gone into social work or law

Where yes you'd have more paperwork but at least you wouldn't have to worry so much about where the demons lurk

You are going to wake up on that morning and think.

No. Not this. Not any of this. Not today.

And you will feel like walking away.
Fantasize about Iona, India, or even Sherwood, Oregon...given enough Cabernet.

But on that day you will remember this day. This ordination.
That your ministry.

It's not about you, or me.

But the God who works in, around and through us. The Holy Trinity.
The Father, son, and the laughter between them

The impossible Holy spirit

Dancing in those the world has declared done
Already at work in the darkest places
In the wounds unseen by the sun

This ordination, this ministry is not about you

But the God who works in, around, and through you.

The God of the prodigal, the father standing on the edge of the land
His head cradled his hands but his eyes never leaving the horizon

Scanning for the one, his broken, dead dog of a son

Who spent it all on wine, women, and song

And when it ran out decided to move along

To move...back home. So he came up with a story, maybe even a poem

Thinking if he worked his words enough, spun them just right

Maybe he'd have some place warm to stay that night

But before he could cry his fake tears and sing,

His father's already seen him, already called

For the fatted calf and the ring

And when the boy opens his mouth to talk

His dad just says shut up. Shut up and walk. With me.

Back to the house

Back to the home. Your home.

Where I have never. Stopped. Loving you.

Because this God, the one you serve, is the God who raises the dead

And that will mean you, too.

On that morning when you can barely roll out of bed.

So this day, remember.

It's not about you- but this Lazarus heart God instead.

And...yet. It's not about you? It is, a little, isn't that true.

This day. This ordination. Your ministry.

It is about you.

All you have been through, and all you will do.

Because there will come a moment on another day

When a young kid will enter your office and say

He's confused, he can't remember how it started

But now he can't make it go away

He always liked girls, they were always friends

But now there's this boy and there's no end

To the places they go together, the time they spend

And he's beautiful, this boy- everything about him is beautiful
His face, the way his lean body moves with grace

But he knows they can't be right
    These feelings inside of him
Maybe it's the devil, or some kind of sickness or sin

Put them all on an island his dad would say
    You're better off dead than gay
And now that's all this kid can think about night and day

Knife, gun, bridge, or pills
But he can't even pick, and his self-hatred fills
    Every minute, every hour
Something has to give. He doesn't have the power
    To hang on for dear life. Anymore. And so he's there. At your door.

And you. You. This day. This ordination. Your ministry.
    It is about you. All you have been and all you will do.
And you will look at him with a love in your eyes
    A love stronger than the hate, stronger than the lies
A love born from your own struggle to stand
    To be yourself, be your own God created
        And God blessed gay man
    And to live...it's a look only you can give

And you will rise up before him a lone holy angel
    Announcing to him what no one else has before
That there's nothing to fear- these feelings
    Being gay, being queer

And because of who you are
    What you have known what you have seen
The sadness you have swallowed
And the soul you've felt washed clean ten thousand times over ten thousand times again

This young man will believe you
    And grace will wash over him, too
        And maybe
We will lose one less Tyler Clementi
    Say one less prayer for Bobby

This day. What we are doing here. It is about you...and it's not.
    And you will spend the rest of your days
Feeling wonderfully caught between
    The two, sometimes not knowing what to do
But on your best days trusting that knowing that you don't know
    Is the very best place to be
To follow after where the one wild spirit is blowing in your ministry

So You Think You Know the Lockes?

Brian and Carolyn Locke have been members of TPC for a fair number of years. They have served this church in a wide variety of ways, including Carolyn's ongoing service as our own TPC Poet

Laureate. But what don't we know about the Lockes? What have they kept from us, their own church family? Here are three little known facts; that just might serve as conversation starters some Sunday morning over coffee and cookies.

Brian and Carolyn first visited TPC on Palm Sunday in 1987. They were members of Southminster at that time. During TPC's "infancy," various neighboring churches donated gently used items to help our newly formed congregation, and Southminster was one. Brian and Carolyn wanted to come visit the young church, perhaps to see if those donated items were being put to good use. As you know, TPC has a history of rather festive Palm Sunday celebrations, complete with waving fern fronds, Easter egg hunts, and food. Palm Sunday in 1987 was all that and more. That particular Sunday everyone was in a very celebratory mood since TPC had reached the pledge goal needed to begin construction of our current (though admittedly smaller) building. It was a bit beyond the normal craziness that Sunday, for which there were many apologies, but Brian and Carolyn found that energy and enthusiasm very appealing. It took a few months, but they made TPC their permanent church home in August of that year.

It pays to get to know other members of TPC; you may find that your paths have crossed in a prior life. Carolyn and Brian discovered just such a connection with Paul and Linda Fukasawa while chatting over one of TPC's brunches a couple of years ago. They discovered that all four had attended Cal Poly State University in San Luis Obispo at the same time during the early '70's. They also discovered that Paul's aunt Kiyo was the amazing and beloved high school math teacher who had taught Carolyn and her four siblings in Ojai, CA. Can you find a similar connection with a member of TPC?

And finally, Brian and Carolyn fuel their vehicles on their own driveway at a price of $1.24/gallon.

Now before you all start driving by their West Linn house and attempting to get in on this deal, you should know there is a catch. Brian is an expert in the use of compressed natural gas (CNG) to fuel their vehicles. Carolyn's car is CNG only, and Brian's truck runs on either CNG or gasoline. The benefits: CNG is low cost and environmentally friendly. The drawbacks: it takes 8 hours (overnight) for Carolyn to fuel her car, CNG fueling stations, though taking only the "normal" fueling time, are few and far between (hence the reason for having their own set up at home), and the storage tank is larger and takes up valuable space. However, in Brian and Carolyn's mind the cost and environmental benefits far outweigh what they consider to be small inconveniences.

So now you have three little known facts about Brian and Carolyn Locke. What will you share with them?

WE LAY DOWN OUR BURDENS

The liturgical season of Lent begins March 5 with Ash Wednesday. The six weeks of Lent are traditionally a time of penance, prayer and reflection. It is a time of reconciliation, mending our relationship with God, mending our human relationships and finding ways to remove physical, spiritual and emotional burdens that separate us from God and neighbors.

The Worship Art Committee brings a challenge to the whole TPC community. We ask everyone to join us in identifying and Laying Down Our Burdens symbolically in front of the Communion Table. Stones of various sizes and colors will represent our burdens. Throughout Lent, a basket of stones will be placed by the Baptismal Font. Each Sunday we invite you to choose a stone (or stones) and place it around the small cross in front of the Communion Table. During the week we hope that each person will reflect on the release of their stumbling blocks and pray that God will help us live a life more in the image of our Lord and Savior, a life that truly shows that we are Christians.

You may ask "What are these burdens? Are they big? Do I have to tell others what my burden is?" A burden can be anything that interferes with a relationship, prevents us from being our best, causes pain to us or others. This is a personal communication between each of us and God. Examples could include, an unkind word, a negative, selfish, or superior attitude. Nothing is too large or too small. A burden could be beyond our control such as illness, depression, unemployment or any situation that we allow to impact our self-worth, joy of living each day or interacting with others. (That includes God.) No one will know what our rocks represent. Even if you can't identify the burden that you carry, place a rock at the cross. God knows.

Jesus redeemed us through His death on the cross. When we celebrate Jesus' resurrection on Easter we will have a visual representation that Jesus is victorious over death and all our burdens. He has released us from the burdens that separate us from God and prevent us from entering into true relationship with God and all of God's creation.

May you find grace and peace during Lent and arrive at Easter with a light step, a happy heart and a calm mind and spirit, in other words, Burden Free.

The Worship Art Committee, Mary Shiffer, Director

MARCH WOMEN'S MINISTRY BRUNCH A Celebration!

All TPC women are invited to brunch on Saturday, March 15 at 10:30 a.m. at the church. Come, celebrate, and learn about the most joyous Jewish holiday of Purim, also sometimes referred to as Jewish Mardi Gras. Dr. Cathy Lambeth will share the story of Esther, Mordechai, and Haman from the Book of Esther. Explore the megillah, use your grogger and learn how to make hamantashen.

Sign-up on the sheet in the narthex. Our gathering usually lasts until noon.

One Purim tradition is providing baskets for those less fortunate; this links nicely with our two mission projects: HopeSprings Mission Support and the Backpack Buddy Program. Currently, the Backpack Buddy Program has the greatest need. Donated food items help ensure students don't go hungry over the weekend. To help, bring food item(s) to the brunch. Most needed are: canned pasta/protein (especially Spaghetti's and Mini Ravioli), canned chicken, boxes of chicken helper, boxed cereal (except oatmeal), peanut butter, jam or jelly, canned fruit, individual fruit cups and Capri 100% juice drinks. Joan Nardi accepts these items at any time.

Your HopeSpring donations have us well supplied for the families in transition. However, donations of the square laundry baskets are especially welcomed. If this is something you wish to donate, please let Joan Nardi know.

The Women's Ministry Group is open to all TPC women who want to strengthen their bonds of fellowship and grow spiritually. Please feel free to bring a friend—all are welcome.

MISSION COMMITTEE REPORT

Minute for Mission Presenters

During February members shared their personal sense of mission and how they responded to the call. Special thanks to Herb Richardson, Ted and Adele Pelletier, Leah Olson, and Mary Ortez for giving first hand examples of how to reach out and serve others. Their outreach is inspiring.

Adult Mission Trips

There will be two adult mission trips this year. The first is a one-day trip to help Habitat for Humanity in Newberg. On the Saturday after Easter, April 26th, we will be in Newberg from 9:00 am until 4:00 pm. There is a 10-person maximum. If interested, sign up on the sheet in the narthex.

The second is a four-day trip to Bend to support that community's Habitat for Humanity organization. We will depart after church on Sunday, August 3rd and work three days on site, Monday through Wednesday, August 4th - 6th. We will again stay at the Three Sisters Adventist School and prepare our own meals. A sign-up sheet is in the narthex. For more information, about either of these mission trips, talk to Chip Kyle or any member of the mission committee.

March is Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month Colorectal cancer is the second leading cause of death from cancer in the United States.

The number of new colorectal cancer cases and the number of deaths from colorectal cancer are both decreasing a little bit each year. However, in adults younger than 50 years, the number of new colorectal cancer cases has slowly increased since 1998. Finding and treating colorectal cancer early may prevent death from colorectal cancer. Screening tests may be used to find colorectal cancer.

The colon and rectum are part of the large intestine. Colorectal cancer occurs when tumors form in the lining of the large intestine. It is common in both men and women. The risk of developing colorectal cancer rises after age 50. You're also more likely to get it if you have colorectal polyps, a family history of colorectal cancer, ulcerative colitis or Crohn's disease, eat a diet high in fat, or smoke.

Symptoms of colorectal cancer include

- Diarrhea or constipation
- A feeling that your bowel does not empty completely
- Blood (either bright red or very dark) in your stool
- Stools that are narrower than usual
- Frequent gas pains or cramps, or feeling full or bloated
- Weight loss with no known reason
- Fatigue
- Nausea or vomiting

Because you may not have symptoms at first, it's important to have screening tests. Everyone over 50 should get screened. Tests include colonoscopy and tests for blood in the stool. Treatments for colorectal cancer include surgery, chemotherapy, radiation, or a combination. Surgery can usually cure it when it is found early.

YOUTH MISSION AND FELLOWSHIP

After worship on Sunday, January 26 a group of youth, lead by Youth Elder, Kathy Sweetland headed off to Fred Meyer, Wilsonville, to purchase pajamas for kids. They then walked over to Sleep Country and donated them to the Foster Kid's Pajama Drive. Following this mission project, they moved on to the Wilsonville Family Fun Center for an afternoon of pizza and fun! Participants are pictured below. Lots of smiles! Photo by Kathy Sweetland.
